HEAVY JAPANESE LOSSES IN SHANSI OPERATIONS REVEALED

Five Thousand Killed: Even More Wounded

CHINESE TROOPS RESORT TO GUERRILLA TACTICS

Yuanqu, November 21. INDICATIVE OF THE HEAVY LOSS in man-power in her disastrous campaign in China, Japan's casualties in west and north Shansi alone during the last two weeks' operations are estimated at 5,000 killed and more than double that number wounded.

This heavy number of casualties, the estimate reveals, were inflicted during more than 30 engagements, including several major combats.

Commenting on the large number of Japanese casualties, a high Chinese military officer explained that the invaders suffered this heavy toll because they were mostly on the offensive, while the Chinese were often content with holding their own grounds.

BIG ROBBERY IN LONDON

£10,000 Worth Of Jewellery

London, Nov. 21. A reward of £50 is being offered for the arrest of the perpetrators of a daring jewel robbery in London.

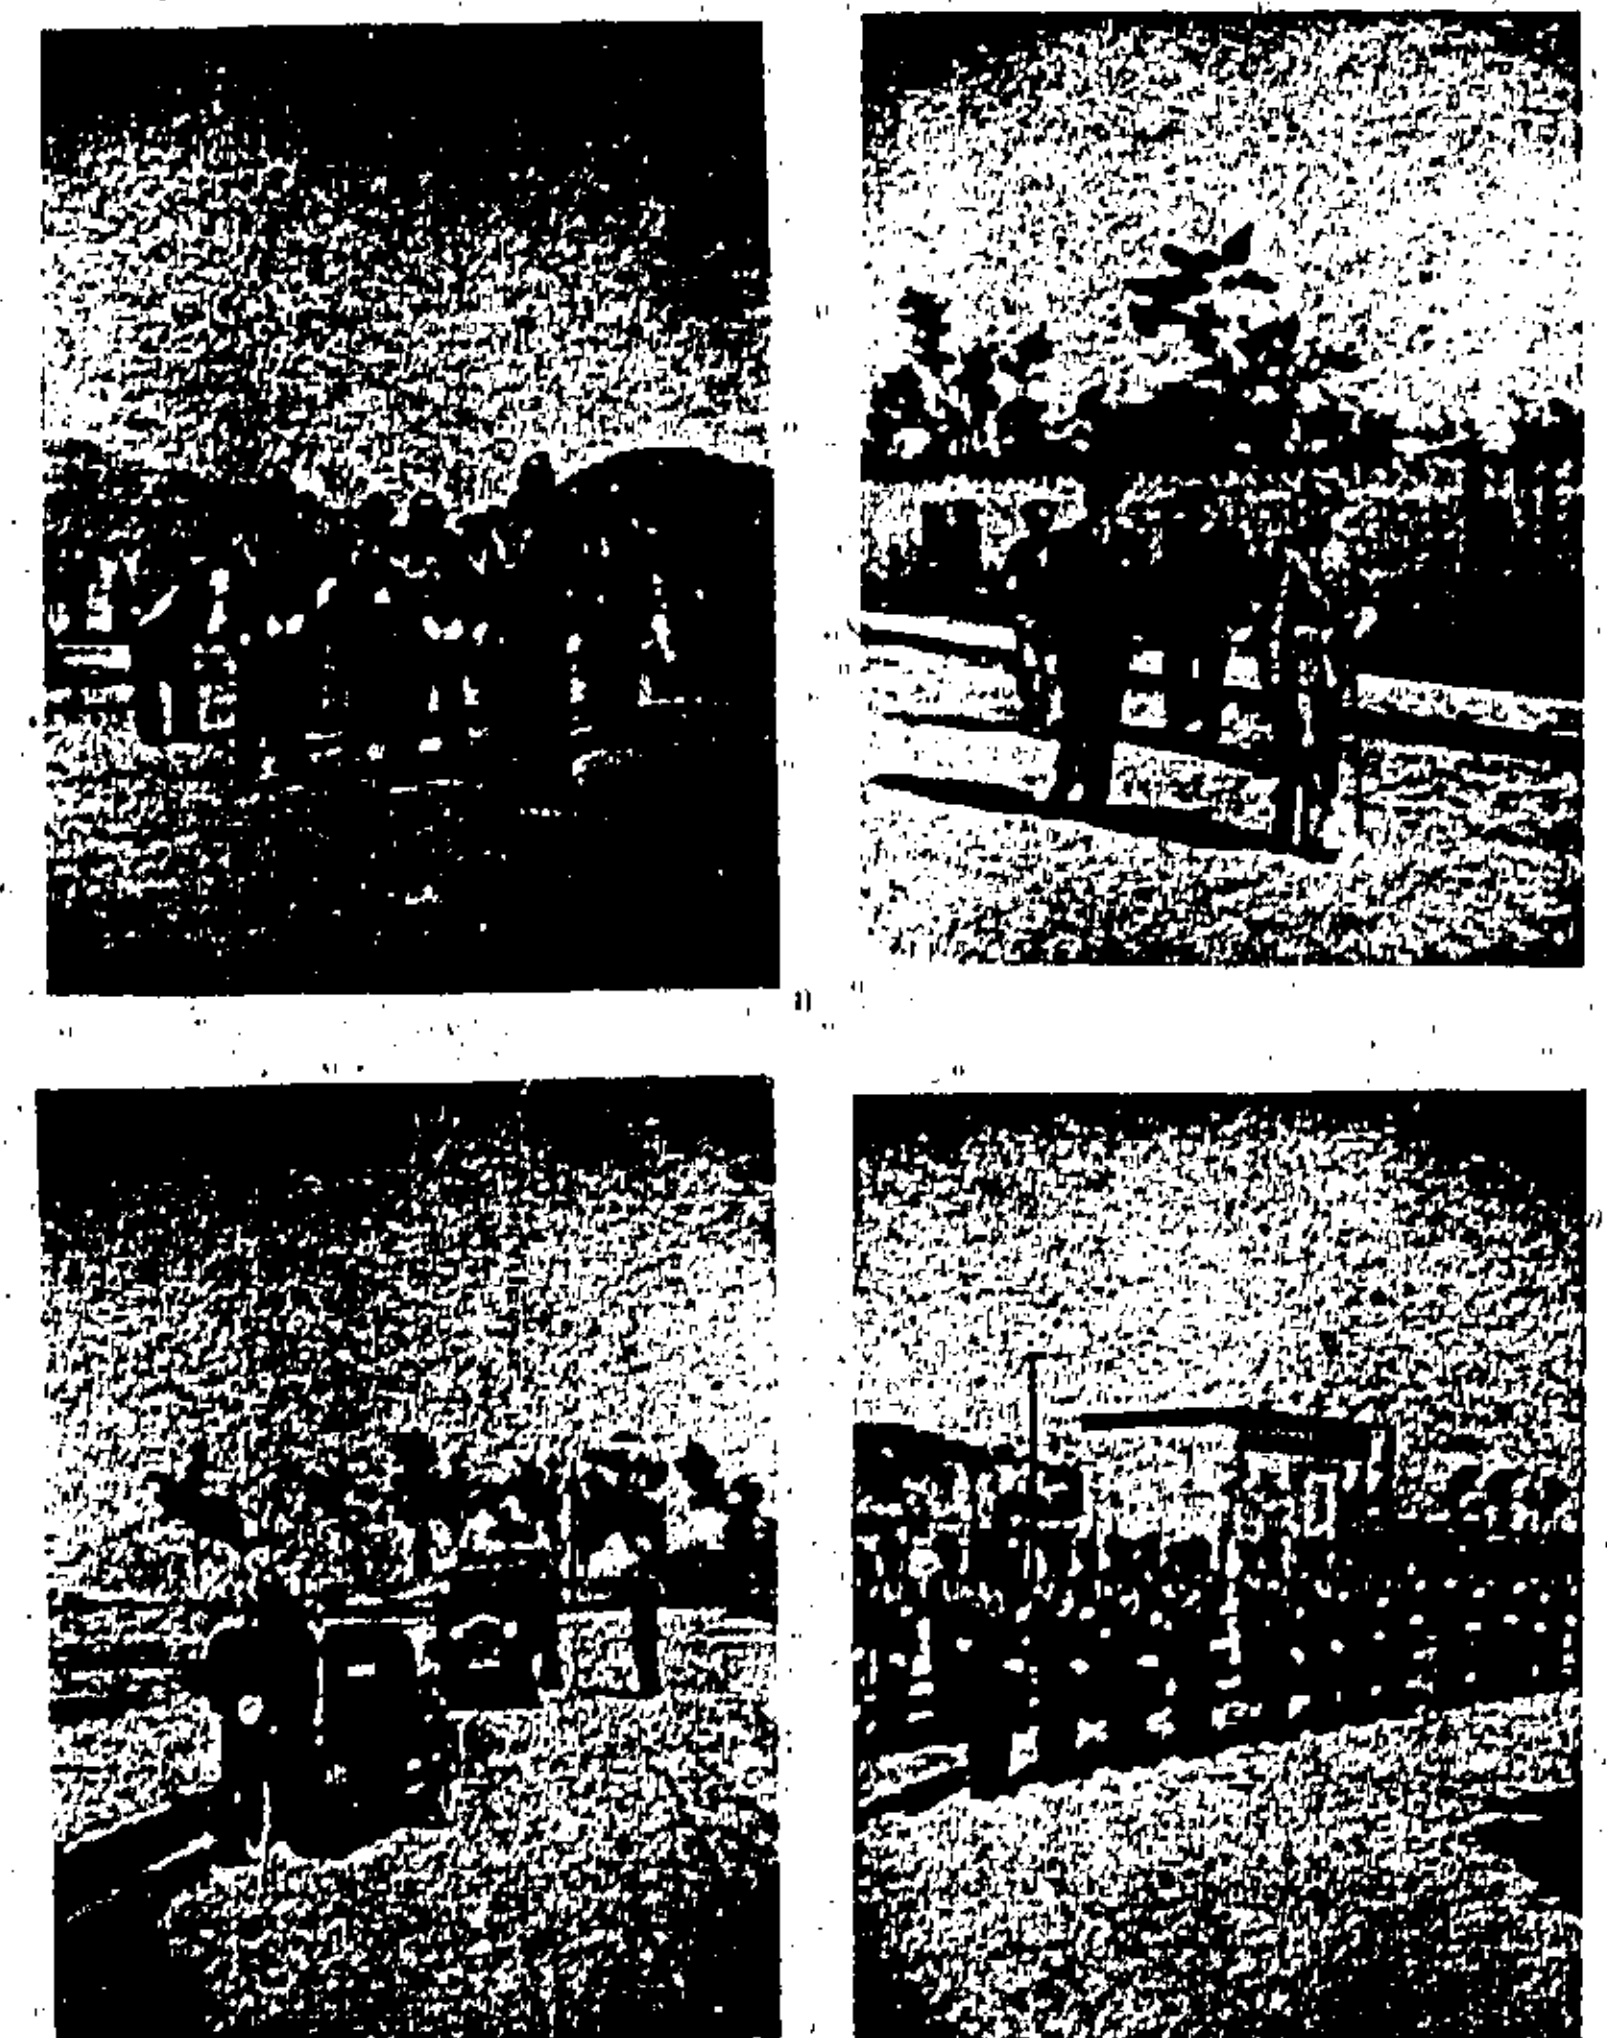

The robbers drove up to a jewelry shop and kidnapped the chief clerk who was taken to a garage and locked up.

The robbers took the keys from his pocket and returned to the shop where they opened the safe and stole jewellery worth £10,000.—Reuter.

HITLER RECEIVES DIPLOMATS

Berlin, Nov. 21. Herr Hitler to-day received at Obersalzberg various foreign diplomats who presented their credentials. They included the Japanese Ambassador to Berlin, General Oshima, the Belgian Ambassador Count Davignon, the Albanian Minister, M. Pico, and the Manchurian Minister, Mr. Lue.—Transocean.

Plans for blacking out should now be in a state of readiness. Do not forget to give them a trial run and remedy any faults while there is yet time.

A REMARKABLE EXAMPLE OF UNITY

Indian Doctors Welcomed

Chungking, Nov. 21. In a leading article, welcoming the arrival of the Indian Medical Unit, the new "Szechuan Daily News" characterizes the visit as a remarkable example of unity and sympathy among the human race.

The paper states that after their arrival in China in September, the Unit has engaged in medical work in Hankow and is now planning to continue its work in Chungking.

Assistance from friendly peoples, the paper continues, inspires the Chinese to make further efforts of resistance and strengthens China's confidence in ultimate victory.

The paper hopes that the Indian people will boycott Japanese goods and help the Chinese cause.—Reuter.

GLORIOUS TRIBUTE

Chungking, Nov. 21. Interviewed by press representatives, Dr. M. Atal, speaking on behalf of himself and his colleagues voiced unflinching faith in the final prevalence of the Chinese cause. Dr. Atal paid a glowing tribute to the spirit of resistance of the Chinese people and their calm submission to the travails of the war.

The patriotism of Chinese people resident in various foreign countries, Dr. Atal said, deserves the highest praise. He believed the material support given by these overseas Chinese should contribute much to the eventual victory of China.—Central News.

RELIEF MEASURES FOR EMIGRANTS

London, Nov. 21. The "News-Chronicle" and "Daily Express" to-day believe that the British Government will announce certain relief measures for the emigrants from Germany when the problem and question of these emigrants will be discussed by Parliament to-day.

The "News-Chronicle" declares in its editorial that it is England's historic task to find in co-operation with America, the Dominions and other democracies, areas where Jews can be settled in large numbers and that it is England's duty to help in this matter.—Transocean.

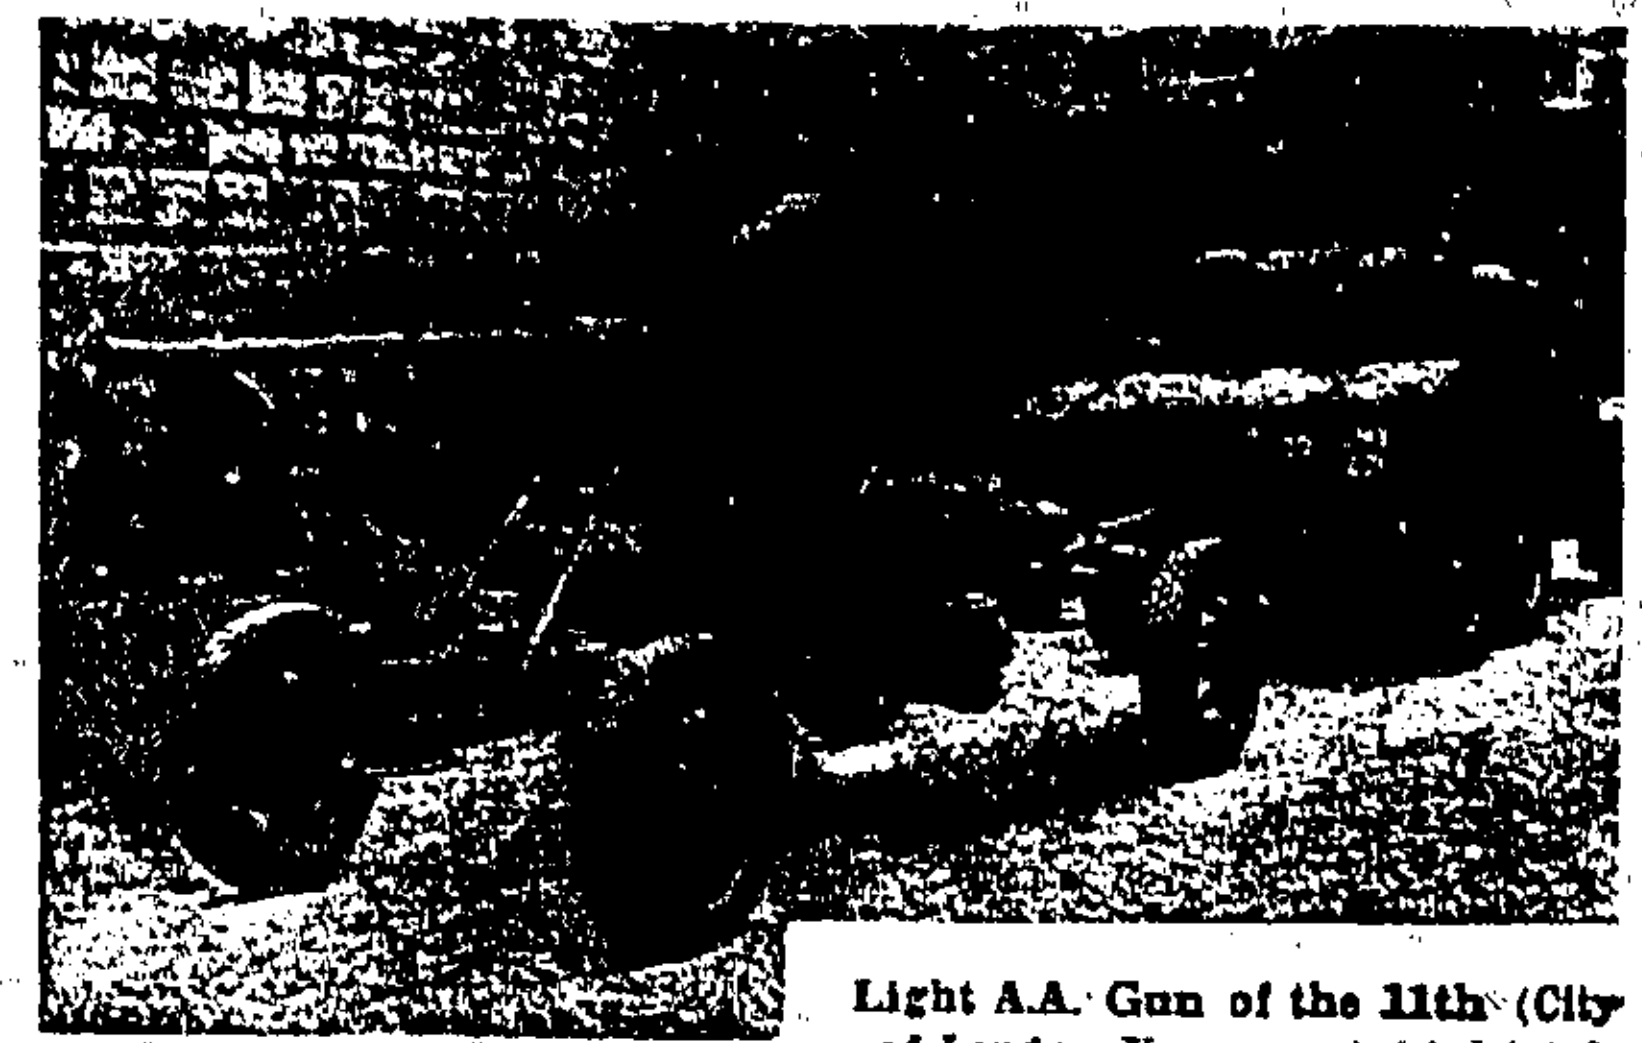

FALLING METEOR OBSERVED

Berlin, Nov. 21. The rare spectacle of a falling meteor was observed at numerous places in southern Germany yesterday evening.

In Munich, Frankfurt and Karlsruhe, this unusual event, which lasted about 15 minutes, was watched from the roofs of houses and other points. A pale blue light emanated from the meteor, the tail of which resembled that of a comet.

The people in Frankfurt were under the impression that the meteor had come down in the immediate vicinity of the city, but confirmation of this belief is still lacking.—Transocean.

SIR ARCHIBALD CLARK KERR'S STATEMENT

CHINESE MORALE UNAFFECTED

YOUTH PRAISED

At the Ambassador's request a representative of the "Daily Press" called yesterday at Government House. Sir Archibald Clark Kerr's attention has been drawn to outstanding article of yesterday in which it was stated that "a effort has been made, through H.M. Ambassador, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr, to test the possibilities of effecting a break-up of the Chinese Government and securing at least a sufficient number of discouraged, defeatist, and treacherous elements to form a nucleus of a new push to liquidate China's resistance. They are looking for a Chinese 'Hodza' is how it was aptly put by one observer."

Sir Archibald Clark Kerr was able to show our representative that this statement had no foundation in fact and was based upon information that was entirely incorrect.

We are happy to have the opportunity of tendering our apologies to the Ambassador whom we know (Continued on Back Page)

"EXAGGERATED, UNFOUNDED" REPORT

Alleged Attack On Dr. Logan Roots

Hankow, Nov. 21. The incident in Wuchang on November 15, when Dr. Logan Roots, Jr., son of Bishop Logan H. Roots, was stated to have been the victim of an attack by Japanese soldiers, was described as "exaggerated and unfounded" by a Japanese consular spokesman to-day when he addressed a strong protest through the press.

The Japanese consular representative declared that after an investigation of November 17, no evidence was found that a bottle filled with carbolic solution was hurled in Dr. Roots' face, nor was there any fact showing that the United States flag was insulted.

He added that owing to language difficulties, Dr. Roots and the Japanese soldiers had difficulty in conversing. While gesticulating, the Japanese accidentally sprayed Dr. Roots with a carbolic solution which was carried in a sprayer to disinfect Chinese refugees.—Reuter.

GIRL LEADER OF GUERRILLAS KILLED

Chungking, Nov. 21. News has just reached here of the death of the Chinese girl leader of the guerrillas operating on the banks of Taihu Lake.

The message stated that Miss Tsai Yi-fel (Flying Flower), was killed in an engagement with the Japanese on November 6 to the southeast of Changshin receiving eight sword wounds.—Reuter.

BOMB INCIDENT IN SHANGHAI

Shanghai, Nov. 21. Chinese to-day threw a bomb injuring five in a Japanese controlled area on the fringe of the International Settlement. The perpetrators dashed into the Settlement and threw another bomb, injuring five persons.

It is believed, however, that the second bomb was merely thrown away in order to get rid of incriminating evidence in the event of an arrest.—Transocean.

JAPANESE ADVANCE HALTED

Chungking, Nov. 21. Chinese military dispatches from the Changsha front declare that the Japanese advance in Hunan has been halted south of Yochow after a vigorous Chinese counter-attack.

The Japanese are at present trying to clear up the Chinese forces in the Tapieshan mountains, in east Hupeh, on the north bank of the Yangtze, in the vicinity of Yinghsan.

After occupying Lotien, the Japanese are at present pushing eastward towards Yinghsan.—Reuter.

NEW COMMERCIAL ROUTE ENVISAGED

Between Hongkong And China, Via Haiphong

TRANSPORTATION COST HIGHER

THE INAUGURATION OF A NEW COMMERCIAL ROUTE between Hongkong and China, via French Indo-China, in substitution for the Hongkong-Canton route which has been blocked since the Japanese invasion, is envisaged in local Chinese commercial circles, according to the Chinese press, says "Central News."

With the inauguration of the new route, closer commercial relations will develop between Hongkong and Haiphong, which will serve as a transit centre for Hongkong-China trade, they predict.

Imports from Hongkong to China will be first shipped to Haiphong, thence to Yunnan by the Annam-Yunnan Railway. Exports from China to Hongkong will be transported in the opposite direction. Because of the greater length of this route than the Hongkong-Canton route, the transportation cost will necessarily be higher.

AGENTS SENT

Many local firms are said to have already sent agents to Haiphong to study the commercial conditions and establish branches there in preparation for extending their trade into the interior of China.

Local Chinese commercial circles are sceptical regarding the possibility of resumption of normal communication between Hongkong and Canton in the near future.

They point out that as long as they are in occupation of Canton (Continued on Back Page)

Tragic Death Of Chief Petty Officer In Room At China Fleet Club

The death of the late Frederick George Pitman, Chief Petty Officer aboard H. M. S. Birmingham, formed the subject of an inquest held at the Central Court yesterday afternoon. Mr. R. A. D. Forrest sat as Coroner and was assisted by a jury comprising Messrs. H. M. dos Remedios (Foreman), Sung Tak-kyong and I. M. Sasso.

C. P. O. Pitman was found shot dead in room No. 6 at the China Fleet Club on the morning of October 16. The tragedy was discovered by a room boy, Yee Kwai, who had been told by the deceased to wake him up at 10 a.m. on the day in question.

Yee Kwai, in the witness box, said that C. P. O. Pitman went to the China Fleet Club on October 15. Deceased felt unwell, otherwise his appearance seemed to be normal, and he was not drunk.

Lt-Commander J. P. de W. Kitchin, Gunnery Officer of H. M. S. Birmingham, said deceased was his chief gunner's mate. On October 14 deceased approached him to apply for a rifle and a revolver, his reason being that he (deceased) had been invited to shoot on the Stonecutters range.

QUITE NORMAL

C. P. O. Pitman was a member of the ship's rifle and revolver team and it would appear quite normal for him to apply for arms and ammunition.

On Sunday, October 16, witness received a signal and went to the China Fleet Club where he found deceased lying on a bed with a gunshot wound in the head.

Witness said he never knew deceased to be depressed at all. Deceased was always very cheerful, but witness could give no reason for the tragedy. Deceased was in excellent health.

Japan's "All-China" Policy

AIMED AT GREAT BRITAIN

Japan's south China advance is more than a military move to interrupt the trickle of supplies to China from Hongkong via Hankow. It is the result of a struggle inside Japan.

The struggle inside Japan has centred around the establishment of the China Affairs Bureau as a special agency of the Japanese Cabinet.

With the setting up of this new Japanese for months had been satisfied with aerial attacks on the Canton-Hankow railway, but they had succeeded in reducing the rail link between Canton and Hankow to a tenuous thread along which only modest transportation work, and that of little military importance, could be undertaken.

NEW BERLIN AMBASSADOR

In this move they met strong resistance from the chief of the Japanese Foreign Office, General Kazushige Ugaki, who with other "moderates" refused to surrender the last bit of influence on the course of Japan's China policy still left to Japanese diplomatic endeavours.

Ugaki and other Japanese moderates were still looking forward to an understanding with Chiang Kai-shek and were also not willing to jeopardise Anglo-Japanese relations through a new campaign in Southern China near Hongkong. This struggle was so serious that Ugaki resigned.

So important was the change of foreign policy implied that a wholesale reshuffling of diplomats ensued, the most striking change taking place in Berlin. Oshima has been appointed Japan's Ambassador in Berlin, a living symbol of the Tokyo-Berlin entente which in the new Japanese foreign policy takes the place of the traditional Anglo-Japanese friendship.

BRITAIN'S POSITION

Japan's offensive in Southern China ostensibly aims at the Canton-Kowloon and the Canton-Hankow railways. But such a military move necessarily implies a threat to British Hongkong.

In order to avoid a clash of British and Japanese interests the

Thus military necessities are a thin pretext to conceal the real intention of Japan's new offensive, which aims at disclosing the weakness of Britain's position in the Far East and her unwillingness to defend it.—(New York Times).

PRISON CAMP EXPOSED

A tender story of a young girl's devotion to the wrong sort of man is combined with an amazing behind-the-scenes glimpse of brutal penal methods in "Prison Farm," the new drama now at the Alhambra Theatre.

Shirley Ross, one of Hollywood's most promising young actresses, has her first big dramatic role as the girl whose love for her gun-man-sweetheart is so strong that she follows him into a brutal prison camp rather than face separation.

Lloyd Nolan plays opposite her, while the leading trio is completed by John Howard, who turns in an outstanding performance as the crusading prison doctor.

BERENGARIA SOLD

Breaking-Up At Jarrow

Sir John Jarvis, M.P., stated recently that he has bought, for a sum exceeding £100,000, the 52,000-ton Cunard White Star liner Berengaria.

She will be broken up at Jarrow, providing work for 200 of Jarrow's unemployed for at least two years.

A new company will be formed, to be called the Jarrow Ship-breaking Co. It is Sir John's intention to make ship-breaking a permanent industry there.

The Commissioner for the Special Areas, Sir George Gillett, has leased the greater part of Palmer's Yard for the work. Preparations will be put in hand immediately.

The Berengaria will make her last journey from Southampton to Jarrow early next year.

Philharmonic Production Of "Ruddigore" Ready

Members of the Hongkong Philharmonic Society are putting intensive work into their rehearsals for the forthcoming production of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic opera, "Ruddigore" (by permission of R. D. O'Ly Carte) and the Committee of the Society have pleasure in announcing that performances will be staged at the Queen's Theatre on December 14, 15, 16 and 17.

His Excellency the Governor, Sullivan season at home, will meet who is a Patron of the Society, with generous approval here. The has graciously consented to be present with Lady Northcote on Friday, December 17.

"Ruddigore" has never before been presented in Hongkong, but it is hoped that the opera, which was voted the third most popular of the operas presented in a recent Gilbert and

PENSIONS FROM THE LAST WAR

£39,000,000 A Year Still Being Paid

The Minister of Pensions, Mr. H. Ramsbottom, speaking at the British Legion Surrey County Conference at Reigate recently, said that at the moment, 20 years after the Great War, there were still on the books of the Ministry 420,000 pensioners and besides them about 500,000 dependents.

There were on any day, in the year about 2,000 patients in his hospitals, and he wished that some of those who, after the danger of the recent crisis had passed, glibly demanded firmer stands and stronger measures would spend a few days going round those hospitals and seeing for themselves the wreckage that still remained from a war fought nearly a quarter of a century ago.

He was still paying out in pensions about £39,000,000 a year, and the total expenditure on War pensions from 1914 to March 31, 1938, amounted to £1,275,000,000—double the whole of the National Debt before the War. Had there been a war a month ago it would have been a long one.

By the time we had finished, he should have wanted a very large share indeed in the total proceeds of the income-tax to have discharged his obligations to the new pensioners.

He was awarding new pensions every day; in fact, fresh or revised grants, pensions, or allowances were being paid in about 110 cases a week. Already two out of every five survivors of the Great War had been compensated.

RICH MAN, POOR GIRL

The famous Broadway stage comedy, "White Collars," has been adapted for the screen and is showing to-day at the King's Theatre as "Rich Man, Poor Girl."

The story is of a millionaire and his efforts to convince the family of his girl friend that he is deserving of her love. Not until he threatens to give away all his money in order to earn their respect do they realise their stupidity.

The fine comedy has Robert Young, Lew Ayres, Guy Kibbee, Rita Johnson and Lala Turner in the cast.

Official Secrets Acts Danger To Press Liberty

Lord Beaverbrook sent a message of support to the conference on the Official Secrets Acts, organised by the National Union of Journalists and by the National Council of Civil Liberties, which met in the Beaver Hall, Cannon-street, recently.

Lord Beaverbrook wrote: "The Official Secrets Act, as applied, operates to limit the liberty of the Press. This was never intended. Indeed, we were assured that it would not take place. But we must face the facts as we find them."

"In demanding that this dangerous situation should be brought to an end, we newspaper men are speaking not only in the interests of our profession, but on behalf of principles which affect every citizen."

"In organising an agitation for the amendment of the Official Secrets Acts you are serving the country well. I hope your efforts will have early and complete success."

The chairman of the conference was Major-General Lloyd George, M.P., and the speakers included Sir Doreen Frost M.P., Mr. A. P. Herbert, M.P., Mr. W. J. Brown, of the Civil Service Clerical Association, and Mr. C. J. Bundock, general secretary of the National Union of Journalists.

THE PARTITION PROCEEDS

Czechoslovakia has received yet another heavy blow with the decision of the German and Italian arbitrators on her dispute with Hungary.

Hungary has had to do without the important town of Bratislava, to which she had no claim whatever, but she has been given Kosice, in Slovakia, and Uzhorod and Mukacevo, the two chief towns in Ruthenia.

Ruthenia, indeed, has suffered, if anything more than Slovakia, and it is doubtful whether any kind of independent existence will now be possible for her.

Uzhorod was to have been the capital of this little State; in it the Czech Government had built the fine administrative buildings which were her chief dignity.

Little is now left of the Czechoslovakia Republic which before Munich was the best-governed, most prosperous, and the only free country in Central Europe.

JAPAN PAYS FOR WAR

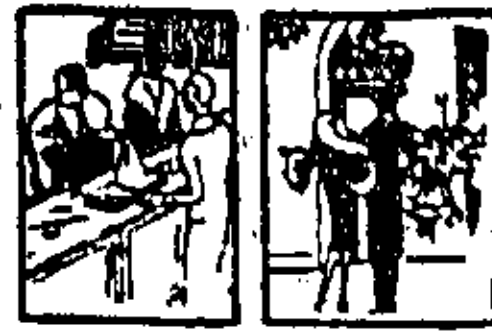

Japan's economic position is very strains. Inflation would have to be continued and, as its nature, might well quicken its pace.

The exhaustion of raw material stocks will lame the export industries, while any fall in the exchange value of the yen, which may become inevitable, would increase the cost of pursuit of war.

It is thus becoming a matter of urgent necessity for Japan to bring the financial and economic drain of the war to an end.

When pretty Mrs. Hazel Buchholtz bustled into a Los Angeles court clad only in her bath-robe, Judge Leslie Stills flushed with rage and spectators jumped from their seats in astonishment.

"What does this mean?" thundered the Judge. "Who is the woman?"
Mrs. Buchholtz turned her fingers inward to the bath-robe and replied: "This is an undressed truth."
"Silence," shouted the Judge, as spectators laughed. "Let this woman speak."

"This bath-robe is all I possess," continued Mrs. Buchholtz. "My husband took all my clothes away with him when we separated. I want divorce and clothes."
The Judge immediately ordered her husband, Oville Buch-holtz, to pay his wife $7 monthly pending the hearing of her divorce suit.

Mrs. Buchholtz said the marriage was happy until her mother-in-law came to live with them. Then she flew out of the window and her clothes flew out of the door—in the suitcases of her departing husband.

FASHION'S NEW HARLEQUINADE

New sources of fashion are being revealed in the Paris mid-season collections. It is now the turn of the Commedia dell'Arte with slinky outlines lifted in front to show the turn of a pretty ankle or spreading hemlines.

From this property-room come tinkling bells, masks and dominoes used for hats, with the former moulded as though from clay but in reality from black felt.

Punch's cocked hat, with a natural hair curl for trimming and various jelly bag shapes, are among the designs.

Dominoes are for wear against the forehead with dinner and evening gowns. Many have lace eye veils for mystery.

Harlequin cheeks patch-worked together by Schiaparelli make merry in green, red, plerrot blue, rose and yellow flannel for a grand ground length evening coat fitted to the figure. This is described as a masterpiece in the way of craft all joined up by hand.

Hundreds of patches and a couple of thousand metres of baby "Val" lace appear in an evening gown by Altz.

The patchwork Harlequin theme is repeated at fronts of corsages on evening gowns and through length or merely tops of leg o' mutton sleeves to closed jumper jackets fitted vaguely to the figure.

One is in prune purple satin, completing a slender skirt to match, and another is of Tabarin red velvet, and completes a slender black decollete gown, which is given short red velvet gloves.

KING'S GREETING TO QUEEN OF TONGA

20 Years' Rule In Pacific Isles

The King recently sent a message of congratulation to Queen Salote of the Tongan Islands in the West Pacific, who celebrated the 20th anniversary of her accession to the Throne.

His Majesty's message was conveyed to her through the Secretary for the Colonies, Mr. Malcolm MacDonald, by Sir Arthur Richards, High Commissioner for the Western Pacific. It was as follows:

"It gives me great personal pleasure to send to your Majesty my sincere congratulations on the occasion of the 20th anniversary of your Accession to the Throne of Tonga, and my good wishes to the people of Tonga, who are united in loyalty and contentment under your Majesty's rule."

The period of your reign has been one of steady and peaceful progress in the development of your kingdom. Medical and health services have been extended, educational facilities have been increased, roads have been built and communications between islands have been improved by the provision of wireless stations.

"And these achievements, of which your Majesty may be justly proud, have been effected without in any way sacrificing the financial stability of your kingdom."

It is a source of much satisfaction to me that the ties of friendship between your people and mine have been maintained and strengthened during your reign. I look forward with confidence to the continuance, and I wish your Majesty many years of peace, happiness and prosperity."

GEORGE R. I. MARRIED TO HER PREMIER

Queen Salote ascended the throne at the age of 18. She had been educated at a boarding school in New Zealand. In 1917 she married Prince William Tug, a son of the Prime Minister, and one of the principal Tongan chiefs. Her husband is the present Prime Minister, having succeeded his father a few years ago. She is exceptionally tall, being over 6ft in height.

Music is one of the Queen's hobbies. Every few years she visits Auckland, New Zealand, to buy new clothes. She receives an annual grant of £2,000 from the Colonial Office towards the maintenance of her state. In 1932 she became a Dame Commander of the British Empire.

The Queen's full name is Salote Tonga, and she is a great-granddaughter of King George Tubu I, who founded the dynasty and reigned for 50 years. She has three sons, at school in Auckland.

The Tongan group was named the Friendly Islands by Capt. Cook on his visit in 1773, because of the reception he had from the natives. It is still used as an alternative name. The population of the Islands is 32,000.

HERE'S TO BEAUTY!

"The toast is Beauty. Here's to a clear complexion and bright eyes!" You can say that with every glass of water you drink, as few things are so beneficial to beauty as plenty of liquid.

Cold water, barley water, orange or lemon juice—they're all good. You should have at least four glasses of water a day (six, if possible), and they are best taken between meals.

Some people find that by having no liquid whatever with food, but drinking plenty on rising and retiring, plus a glass between each meal, they get much slimmer and their complexions improve as well.

Few people drink enough, and lots of muddy skins would become clear in a short time if they were allowed more liquid.

Strong tea and coffee should be avoided. Milk is a splendid beautifier, especially for dry-skinned people—and the majority of women in this country are

Round About

On Sunday morning, men, women, and children were gathered outside a church for the morning service. Soft conversation passed among them as they stood outside the doors nodding and welcoming friends and acquaintances.

Several rickshaws draw up in front of the church, and a young woman, with two small children, descend and hurry toward the doors of the church, whence organ music is heard.

They enter the church and take their places in one of the rear pews. Both children stare at them in excitement and amazement. The lady, evidently the mother of the two, is composed and attentive to the service.

Ten, twenty minutes pass, the youngsters are still keenly interested in the people, music and the grey-haired minister. A silver plate is passed among the congregation. Money is deposited in the plate, and as it reaches the hands of the younger child sitting beside her mother and sister, she commences to take one of the shiny coins from the plate.

A quick tap from her mother's hand and she drops the coin. Bewildered and fury appear on her little face, which expresses horror when she notices her mother dropping another coin in the full plate.

Silently the child rises and leaves the church, followed by her two companions!

COL. C.F.B. PRICE

Colonel Charles F.B. Price, commanding officer of the Fourth Regiment, United States Marine Corps, since April 1936, was given a ceremonial farewell at the Racecourse Shanghai, when, in the presence of the whole Regiment, he formally handed over command of the unit to Col. Joseph C. Fegan.

The Marines, for the first time since their arrival in Shanghai in 1927, wore their blue uniforms at the handing-over parade, this having been suggested as a mark of respect to Col. Price who was popular with all ranks of the Regiment, as well as with members of the American community and foreign forces in the city.

GUNNERS GIVEN TWO YEARS' PRISON

"I have given careful consideration to your case and I cannot find any reason whatever for differentiating between it and any other case of highway robbery by two or more persons. Moreover, your military records hardly bear scrutiny. You have brought disgrace not only on yourselves, but also on the uniforms of your regiment."

These were the remarks made by the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell, at the Criminal Sessions yesterday when he sentenced John Thomas Phelan and Frederick Thomas Hamer, both of the 24th Heavy Regiment, Royal Artillery to two years' hard labour each.

It will be recalled that on Friday the two accused pleaded guilty to robbing a Chinese carpenter of $8 at Kennedy Town Praya on October 19. The prosecution alleged that the carpenter was struck and after a search, the money was taken away from his person.

THE WEATHER

An unusual spell of warm weather have come upon Hongkong.

The temperature for the best part of yesterday was little short of 80 and at lunch time it was actually 80.6 degrees.

THE PARIS MURDER

NO CIVILIZED MAN could defend or excuse the deed by which Herr von Rath, third secretary of the German Embassy in Paris, was singled out as an object of dastardly retaliation for his Government's treatment of the Jews. The slain diplomat was not responsible for the revolting handling of the Jews in the Reich, nor with the brutal transport of the Polish Jews in Germany to the Polish frontier; he had no part in the misfortunes which had overtaken the young murderer's parents, which, it is said, had so preyed on the assassin's mind that he took this useless revenge which the Jews themselves will be the very first to deplore.

NEVERTHELESS since all will agree that a great wrong was committed in thus holding one man answerable for something he had never done, so also the Jewish people can have no responsibility for the crime of a despairing youth of seventeen. There can be no sympathy for the anti-Jewish orgy of savagery in Germany which will send a thrill of horror throughout the entire civilized world, for the mob outrages, which instead of being condemned, appear to be condoned by Dr. Joseph Goebbels, one of Herr Hitler's leading lieutenants, as being "justified and comprehensible indignation."

There can be no sympathy for the anti-Jewish riots or with the suppression of Jewish newspapers and cultural activities which has been ordered in Germany, for this is again to make the innocent pay for a crime in which they could have had no part.

INDEED, THE PCGROMS bear every mark of careful organization and also of official condonation. Otherwise, it would be impossible to explain the simultaneous outbreaks all over the Reich at the curious hour of two o'clock in the morning and the impotence of one of the most efficient official police forces in CONDONATION the world to stop the wholesale looting of Jewish shops. Such activity as the police manifested was directed not against the looters but against their victims and against persons who were endeavouring to obtain photographic records of burning synagogues.

THE ONLY REDEEMING FEATURE about the whole hideous affair is that, the Jews, with some exceptions, were spared their lives; they were spared nothing else, and as the tale of suicides shows, some of them chose death as the lesser evil.

NO FOREIGN PROPAGANDIST bent upon blackening Germany before the world could outdo the tale of burnings and beatings, of blackguardly assaults upon defenceless and innocent people which has disgraced that country. Millions of Germans must detest the dishonour done to their name, and the responsibility which they have been made to share. Their influence, no doubt, counts for little, now, and it is certain that foreign indignation counts for no more immediately.

NATIONS CANNOT be brought to book save by the consequences of their own excesses, and the lessons of experience may be slow in coming. The education of one people by the opinion of other peoples is a vain hope, and denunciation is an empty indulgence.

THE GERMAN PRESS attempts, however distantly, to implicate British statesmen such as Mr. Winston Churchill, Mr. Anthony Eden and Mr. A. Duff Cooper, in the Paris outrage. This is not merely BRITISH ludicrous but wholly STATESMEN intolerable. On the ASSAILED evidence, so far available, the youthful assassin had no accomplices. His was an act of an isolated individual such as the Jewish world had much better reason to fear than to instigate. The Nazi revenge has been one of the most terrible things of the century and entirely unpardonable.

Ship's Greaser On Trial For Murder At Sessions

Boarding House Crime Related By The Crown

Li Man, alias Li Wai-man, 43, ship's greaser, was arraigned before the Acting Chief Justice, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindell at the Criminal Sessions yesterday, charged with the murder of a man, named Pun Shing, at the Luen Hing Boarding House, 24A Connaught Road Central, on August 4.

Li pleaded not guilty and the following jury were empanelled:—Messrs. Ip Kwai-chung (foreman), Ma Shum-ka, Joseph Chan, Chan Chi-wing, P. P. Botelho, Wong Hui-king, and H. U. Ireland.

Mr. John Whyatt, Crown Counsel, was in charge of the prosecution and was assisted by Acting Detective-Inspector L. R. Whant, while Mr. E. Somerset Fitzroy, instructed by Mr. F. X. D'Almada, Jnr., appeared for the accused.

Mr. Whyatt said that the system under which the boarding house was run was similar to that of other boarding houses. Pun Shing had been out of employment since February this year and he received free meals and lodging until the day of the crime. Defendant had also lived there for a considerable period having been unemployed for almost two years.

VACANCIES ON TUG. A little time before the crime a man, named Tong Yat-kwong, an engineer employed on a Taikoo tug visited the house with a view of engaging three men to fill certain vacancies which were pending. At the boarding house, Tong Yat-kwong saw Lam Chun, who was the accountant there.

Tong told the men that they would have to wait until the end of the month before he could be certain of the vacancies. Meanwhile a man, named Chau Fook, had heard of Tong's visit and, being acquainted with Tong, went to see him and managed to obtain one of the vacant positions on August 30. Two other of his classmates filled the other two vacancies and began work on September 1.

ACCUSED DISAPPOINTED. Continuing, Mr. Whyatt said that defendant seemed disappointed and on September 2 he was in one of the rooms of the boarding house, at about 11 p.m. together with two other men, named Wong

Ping and Lung Fat, while the defendant, Pun Shing, was sitting nearby. When it was alleged, defendant accused Pun of depriving him of his chances of obtaining the job. This remark was resented by Pun who told defendant to mind his own business.

About 5.45 a.m. on September 4 one of the employees, named Chang Kwai-look, was awakened by shouts from the deceased. He rushed to the room where he found Pun bleeding from a wound in the abdomen. Defendant's bunk was empty. The door of the room was slightly ajar.

Investigations by the Police revealed that no person had broken into the floor.

WENT TO OPIUM DIVAN

Continuing, counsel said that about 8 a.m. that day the defendant went to an opium divan in Wanchai where he remained till 8 p.m. except for brief intervals when he left the place and returned. About 1 a.m. on September 5 defendant was seen squatting under the verandah on the pavement outside the opium divan by a Police constable, who on learning the defendant's name, arrested him.

Counsel said that accused in his evidence at the Police Magistrate's said: "Pun Shing took away my job and I had been unemployed for over two years. The clerk in the club had always kept me from getting a job and he did not allow me to board a ship to get it. At last I found a job in Taikoo and I was to take it on the 15th, but Pun Shing sent another person to get the job from me."

Counsel said that after the accused had made the statement, he (Mr. Whyatt) had asked defendant: "So you did stab him and run away?" and accused answered: "Yes, and I ran away to Wanchai."

The hearing was adjourned to 10 a.m. to-day.

ACCUSED FOUND NOT GUILTY

Robbery Charge At Sessions

Two men, Ng Ping and Fok Lun, who were charged before Mr. Justice R. E. Williams at the Criminal Sessions yesterday with robbery by two or more, were discharged when a verdict of not guilty was returned by a jury comprising Messrs. V. Walker (Foreman), Yu Fook-chin, Lim En-tet, J. G. R. Humble, Wong Wah-ding, Yuen Kwok-ching and B. Soltau.

Mr. J. B. Prentis, Assistant Crown Solicitor, prosecuted, and was assisted by Sergeant Wilcox.

Mr. Prentis said that a man named Ng Min intended to bring $60 worth of steamed water grass from Chinese territory in a junk to Hongkong.

About 2 p.m. on October 10 the junk was coming down stream into the New Territories when a boat which contained four men, two of whom were armed, ordered them to stop. Under threat of revolvers the cargo was transferred to the pirate boat.

When the two accused were arrested they declared that they had previously been robbed by two armed men and had been forced to assist in the robbery in question.

OPERATION ON BOARD SHIP

A successful operation for appendicitis was carried out by a woman doctor, Dr. Mary Saunders, on board the Burns Philp steamer, Neptuna, while it was on its way from Hongkong to Australia recently.

One of the very few woman ship's surgeons there are, Dr. Saunders adopted her vocation to see the world.

RELIEF SHIP DUE TO SAIL

Supplies For Canton's Needy

Formerly of the Yangtze River run, the B. and S. freighter Wuchang, 3,204 tons, will leave Hongkong to-morrow for Canton, carrying on board her a large quantity of food and clothing for the refugees in Canton.

The first foreign merchant ship to go to Canton since its occupation by the Japanese, the Wuchang will carry, among other things 5,000 pieces of padded clothes, 2,000 blankets, 5,000 pieces of winter clothes, 5,000 coats for children, 5,000 lbs. of knitted goods, 1,000 pounds of beans and 5,000 pounds of rice. There are also a number of motor ambulances.

It is estimated that 50,000 Chinese are staying in the refugee camps in Canton, most of them being women and children.

The Wuchang will also carry a few hundred bags of mail for Canton, part of the lot of over 1,000 at present lying at the Post Office.

The ship has been chartered by the British Fund for the Relief of Distress in China.

Lai was taken to the Queen Mary Hospital for treatment.

It is reported that industrial magnates in the United States have invested capital of $48,000,000 for the establishment of an artificial silk factory. It will be in the district of the hosiery business and it is hoped the women in America will like to make their products as substitutes for stockings made of raw silk imported from Japan. Japanese financial circles are said to be very worried on learning of this news.

MR. EUGENE CHEN'S

OPEN LETTER TO MR. CHAMBERLAIN—III

Choice Before Britain: Soviet Russia As A Peace Power

The following concludes the open letter addressed by Mr. Eugene Chen, former Chinese Foreign Minister, to Mr. Neville Chamberlain, the Prime Minister, with reference to Britain's peace policy in relation to China under invasion and Soviet foreign policy:

As in Central Europe and in the Mediterranean, so in Far Asia, you want peace, "appeasement." Peace in China is a vital British interest because peace is a condition of British trade in this region of Asia. Peace in China can be re-established in exactly one of the two ways offered to you when the Czech question confronted you: sacrifice China by yielding to General Itagaki, the Japanese war minister and representative of the military elements, that actually rule Japan, or stand up to him with Soviet Russia at your side.

You know and General Itagaki knows that Britain alone cannot withstand Japan; and the Japanese soldier knows that France will do nothing unless Japan actually invades Indo-China and that America has not yet made up her mind to practise what she preaches about the covenanted word being the basis of civilised life. But General Itagaki also knows that Britain, with Soviet co-operation, can impose peace without sacrificing China. He knows what the German High Command knows; and the Changkufeng Incident has taught him that any war with Soviet Russia will be fought on Japanese territory and that no Japanese city is beyond the range of Soviet bombers.

In these circumstances neither British nor Chinese vital interests would be served if Britain alone should embark on peace mediation, as the British Ambassador's visit to General Chiang Kai-shek coupled with your recent references to China, might imply in spite of denials.

CHINA AND SOVIET RUSSIA

If you are not prepared to "mediate" with Soviet Russia at your side, I beg you to reconsider your present or contemplated approach to peace and try to implement British League obligations in a sense that leaves Britain without any commitments towards China or in any danger of a conflict with Japan. I have in mind the opinion held in certain high Chinese circles that the British Government would not view with favour the establishment of close Sino-Soviet relations in the spirit of the unwritten Kuomintang-Soviet understanding which first enabled the Kuomintang to begin the conquest of national power at Wuhan in 1927.

The fact that conditions differ fundamentally from those of 1927 does not appear to be convincing to the right wing within the National Government. Foreign imperialism was then on the defensive, wishing only to retain its treaty rights and privileges, whereas Japanese imperialism is to-day on the offensive, determined to conquer and annex China and necessarily to liquidate the treaty rights of other Foreign Powers. And equally unconvincing to the doubting Thomases within the Government is the view that, because Britain cannot assist China, she will hardly play the role of the "dog in the manger" more especially as the adoption of Dr. Sun Yat-sen's foreign policy of co-operation with Soviet Russia may

SOVIET FOREIGN POLICY

A word from you, through the British Ambassador, may help to subdue the misguided Chinese, few but influential, who still hope for assistance from Nazi Germany and Fascist Italy, the allies of the enemy, in negotiating "peace" with the enemy on terms that may leave some measure of power in their hands even though the hands are the hands of slaves.

Perhaps you may be moved in this sense if you understand the governing fact that, since Soviet Russia's entry into the League of Nations, the external basis of Soviet security rests on Communist co-operation with bourgeois democracy against Fascism. The latter is now envisaged as the "enemy," because it is the type of capitalism which expresses "itself" in a state-structure that rests on war and makes for war. This is one of the reasons why the policy of the United Front in China and of the Popular Front in Europe has replaced the doctrine of world revolution as an active principle in the field of international affairs in this period of Fascist aggression. As I am not and have never been a Communist, I do not pretend to speak in the exact idiom of the elect. But I believe that I am expressing the sense of the ideology underlying Soviet foreign policy; and on this point I draw no distinction between the doctrinal teachings of the Comintern and the political views of the Soviet Government.

SOVIET RUSSIA AS PEACE-POWER

There is another reason. Soviet Russia is a Peace-Power in the precise sense in which Britain, France, the United States are Peace-Powers; and she finds herself opposed to Nazi Germany, Fascist Italy and Militarist Japan for the same material and moral reasons which compel the democratic Peace-Powers to be opposed to the three Aggressor-Powers. The latter demand a structural redistribution of the world in violation of rights which condition the life of civilised men and in utter disregard of restraints which distinguish men from beasts of prey.

If Greater Germany is being founded on the dead liberties of Europe north of the Alps and if Greater Japan is rising, soaked in the blood of slaughtered men in China, it is because the social and class prejudices of the ruling bourgeois in Britain, in France, in the United States darken men's mind and vision and lead them to see in Soviet Russia a foe. But if peace is a vital British interest, then Soviet Russia must be recognised as a necessary ally of Britain. Even with French war-power and American war-power, British war-power will be unable to cope with the Aggressor-Powers. In the new world war which is now in course of development, the decisive Power will be Soviet Russia with her immeasurable strength in men, in aeroplanes and other factors of war-power, and in her will and discipline of steel.

Hongkong's rubber is largely from Malaya. This is due to the fact that the local customs authorities adopt protective measures with regard to rubber merchandise from the dominions. During the European crisis in September, the price of rubber per picul had dropped down to about $66. Recently it has risen to $70 per picul, which is three times higher than the prices of three years ago. The market price of rubber is now gradually becoming stable.

SEQUEL TO CHANGSHA FIRE DISASTER

Three Garrison Officers Sentenced To Death

GEN. CHAN CHI-CHUNG DISMISSED HIS POST

Changsha, November 21. Meting out stern punishment for those responsible for the five-day fire at Changsha, the Central authorities have ordered the execution of three important garrison officers of Hunan, and the dismissal of General Chang Chi-chung, Chairman of the Hunan Provincial Government, who was one of the heroes in the defence of Shanghai last year.

The three officers chiefly responsible for the disastrous conflagration, General Feng Ti, Garrison Commander of Changsha; General Wen Chang-fu, Chief of Changsha Police; and Colonel Hsu Kun, Commander of the Second Hunan Garrison Regiment, were executed before a firing squad yesterday morning, after having faced a court martial which condemned them to death.

IMPORTANT KUOMINTANG CONFERENCE

Chungking, Nov. 21. Many Kuomintang leaders are arriving shortly in Chungking for the forthcoming important session of the Central Executive Committee, which opens on December 15.

Various important issues at present confronting the Chinese Government and the Kuomintang Party will be discussed.

The Government is planning to publish official daily newspapers in Kweilin, Kunming, Chengtu and Lanchow. It is stated that the object is to acquaint the populace of the interior with the latest situation in connection with the war and international affairs.—Reuter.

APOSTOLIC DELEGATES

Not Diplomatic Representatives

London, Nov. 21. An agreement, it is stated by the Rome correspondent of the "Daily Telegraph," has been reached between the British Government and the Holy See under the terms of which the Holy See will henceforth be represented in Great Britain by an Apostolic delegate as it is already represented in America, Canada and other countries.

The Apostolic delegates are not diplomatic representatives accredited to the heads of the States but represent the Holy See with the Episcopate of the country to which they are sent.—Transocean.

HEAVY JAPANESE LOSSES

To the southwest of Yuncheng, the Japanese troops in the adjoining districts of Yushang have abandoned their outposts and withdrawn to the city limits of Yushang.

About 700 men, supported by four field pieces, are now defending the town from an imminent Chinese attack.

A unit of Japanese forces, which was cornered at Wangukow north of Changtien, has made several abortive attempts to break through the Chinese cordon. Barring the arrival of reinforcements, the enemy unit is facing annihilation.—Central News.

TSIAOSHIN RE-ENTERED

Nanyang, Honan, Nov. 21. A military telephonic message from the front this morning reports the re-entry by Chinese into Tsiaoshin, a small town fifteen miles west of Yingcheng along the Hankow-Jiangsu highway, after the routing of the Japanese there.

Remnant Japanese forces, retreating in disorder, have fled eastward to Yingcheng, the message states.

Both Hwangchuan, thirty miles west of Hankow, and Lishan, thirty miles east of Sinyang in south Honan, have been evacuated by the Japanese forces after thoroughly looting the towns.

Hwangchuan, according to the report, was set on fire by the Japanese on the night of November 20 and the entire town is now in smouldering ruins. The aerodrome there was completely destroyed.—Central News.

DR. TAGORE MAY VISIT JAPAN

Promotion Of Friendship

Chungking, Nov. 21. Dr. Rabindranath Tagore, the famous Indian poet may consider visiting Japan provided he has an opportunity to promote Sino-Japanese friendship, but he is afraid the Japanese authorities would restrict his freedom of movement and so hinder his mission, says a Tokyo message.

A friend proposed a visit to Japan in a letter sent on September 26, a day after Professor Yone Noguchi had received from Dr. Tagore a letter expressing anti-Japanese views. Professor Noguchi and Dr. Tagore, friends for more than a quarter of a century, had taken opposite sides in an epistolary debate on the China incident.

The answer to the proposal of a visit reiterates the poet's affection for the Japanese masses but states that he would hate to have false interpretations placed on a visit he might make to this country. He adds that he would like to come despite poor health.—International.

FUNERAL OF KEMAL ATATURK

Scenes Of Great Poignancy

Ankara, Nov. 21. Scenes of great poignancy marked the funeral of the late President of Turkey, Kemal Ataturk this morning.

Rain began to fall as the cortege left Parliamentary buildings for the Ethnographic Museum where the President was temporarily laid to rest pending the construction of a special mausoleum. Mourning thousands lined the route and weeping women cried out, "Ataturk, Ataturk, where are you?"

The President's sister also wept as she walked behind the gun carriage. The dull boom of guns and the roar of aeroplanes overhead also marked the procession's progress.

Field-Marshal Lord Birdwood represented King George and the British delegation also included Admiral Sir Dudley Pound and 200 marines with the band from H.M.S. Malaya.

Countries throughout the world were represented at the funeral.—Reuter.

BODY IN ANKARA

Ankara, Nov. 21. The coffin containing the remains of Kemal Ataturk, which arrived here yesterday by special train from Istanbul, was carried in procession to Parliament buildings, where it now lies in state.

Thousands of people filed past the coffin yesterday.

H.M.S. Malaya has arrived at Ankara for the funeral of the late Turkish president.—Transocean.

Guerillas Active On Outskirts Of Canton

That Chinese guerillas in Kwangtung are troublesome to the Japanese was admitted by Vice-Admiral Koshi Shiozawa, in command of the Japanese fleet operating in South China, when he visited the Colony last week to pay an official return visit to Vice-Admiral Sir Percy Noble, Commander-in-Chief of the China Station, says "International News."

Chinese guerillas are active on the outskirts of Canton, along the East River Valley, and several parts of the province.

All former general officers of the 19th Route Army are now taking up arms for the defence of Kwangtung as commanders of guerillas. General Tsai Ting-kai, who led the fight against the Japanese in the first Shanghai war of 1932, is in charge of guerilla units along the West River.

In view of the Chinese counter-offensive for the recapture of Canton, Japanese aerial scouts are active daily observing Chinese troop movements especially in the northern and western districts. Reconnoitering can be carried out in the day, while Chinese troops move usually at night.—International.

SETTLEMENTS FOR JEWS

Board Of Deputies Meets In London

London, Nov. 21. After hearing a long statement by Mr. Neville Laski, its President, the Jewish Board of Deputies, meeting in London yesterday, passed a resolution expressing gratitude for the general support given to the proposals that larger opportunities shall be given in the Empire and Palestine for refugee settlement.

The Board appended to the Government to use its good offices for the amelioration of the position of Jews in Germany, and trusted that in the forefront of any approaches made by the British Government to the German Government may be placed the necessity of permitting intending emigrants to remove their property with them.

Addressing the Jewish Board of Deputies, Mr. Neville Laski said there was ample proof, that the whole action against the Jews in Germany has been carefully and systematically prepared by the Nazi Party.

He was firmly convinced that the Nazis were bent upon the entire destruction of Jews in Germany, even if the Paris assassination had not occurred.

OFFER FROM PALESTINE

An offer to find homes in Palestine immediately for 5,000 German-Jewish refugee children, and a further 5,000 a month later, subject to the permission of the British Government, has been received by the Jewish Agency in London from the Jewish National Council in Palestine.

The cost of transportation would be borne by the Zionist organization in Palestine and the rest of the world.—Reuter.

FATHER LOBBE IN CHENG TU

Chengtu, Nov. 21. Father V. Lobbe, (Le Ming-yuen), naturalized Chinese citizen of Belgian birth, formerly Managing Director of the Tientsin Social Welfare and now a Commander of the North China Field Service Corps, arrived in Chengtu by plane from Chungking yesterday afternoon.

Father Lobbe will shortly return to the North China front by way of Shensi, to direct field service. More than sixty members of Father Lobbe's corps are also expected to arrive here from Chungking in the next few days.—Central News.

MORE BIRTHS IN ITALY

Rome, Nov. 21. A census held on October 31 shows that Italy has a population of 43,982,000, including the four Libyan coast provinces.

From January to October 1938, births exceeded deaths by 358,000. In the corresponding period of last year, the number was only 307,628. Since nearly 10,000,000 Italians live in foreign countries, the total number of Italians is nearly 55,000,000.—Transocean.

Han River Closed To Navigation

Shanghai, Nov. 21. According to information from a private source, the Japanese Consul in Hankow has notified foreign Consuls that the Han River, which joins the Yangtze just above Hankow and which is an important trade artery towards the interior, has been closed to navigation and that foreign ships are not allowed to use the river unless they receive special permission from the Japanese authorities.

This means that the Han River now belongs to the same category as the Yangtze and the Pearl River as regards the prohibition of foreign shipping.

The upper reaches of the Han River, however, are still in the hands of the Chinese.—Transocean.

RIFLE FIRE HEARD IN SHANGHAI

Chungking, Nov. 21. According to a Shanghai report, rifle fire has again been audible in the western districts there during the past few nights, indicating that Chinese guerillas were active on the outskirts of the metropolis.

Practically no one now dares to travel along the Shanghai-Tsingpu highway, it is stated. The Japanese are taking precautions at Hungjiao, along Great Western Road and in Rubicon Village.—Central News.

PLANE MYSTERY CLEARED UP

Briton Arrested In Soviet Union

WIFE DETAINED

London, Nov. 21. The mystery surrounding the fate of a British engineer, Ryan Grover, who secretly left Stockholm in a private plane for an unknown destination about one week ago and who had since vanished has now, according to the "Daily Telegraph," been cleared up. The paper states that Grover, in an attempt to go to the assistance of his wife, who is detained by the Soviet authorities, landed in the Soviet Union and was promptly arrested on arrival.

The paper goes on to say that for the past twelve months Grover had vainly sought to obtain for his wife, who was apparently in trouble with the Soviet authorities, permission to leave the Soviet Union.

In despair, Grover resolved to take a daring step to call attention to the case. Grover, accompanied by an English pilot, named Richmond, landed at Stockholm from London on November 9 in a small Klemm Swallow machine with only a 170 h.p. engine.

PILOT ABSENT

On the morning of November 15, during the absence of the pilot, Grover climbed into the plane at Bromma Aerodrome, near Stockholm, and flew away. Grave fears were entertained for his safety since weather conditions were bad and Grover had little experience of flying. He further lacked the necessary charts and instruments.

The adventurous flier, nevertheless, succeeded in getting to within 100 miles of Moscow but was forced to land at Stariza where he was taken into custody.

The "Daily Telegraph" adds that the Soviet Foreign Commissariat has informed the British Embassy of his arrest and that Grover will be prosecuted for landing in Soviet territory without authority.—Transocean.

Han River Closed To Navigation

Shanghai, Nov. 21.

According to information from a private source, the Japanese Consul in Hankow has notified foreign Consuls that the Han River, which joins the Yangtze just above Hankow and which is an important trade artery towards the interior, has been closed to navigation and that foreign ships are not allowed to use the river unless they receive special permission from the Japanese authorities.

This means that the Han River now belongs to the same category as the Yangtze and the Pearl River as regards the prohibition of foreign shipping.

The upper reaches of the Han River, however, are still in the hands of the Chinese.—Transocean.

PERSECUTION OF CATHOLICS IN GERMANY

Petition Placed Before Shrine

London, Nov. 21. A petition signed by 30,000 Catholics protesting against the persecution of Catholics in Germany was placed before the shrine of Our Lady in Walsingham, in Aliphan Cathedral, Walsingham, Norfolk, yesterday.

The signatories included Cardinal Hinsley, Archbishop of Westminster.—Reuter.

RIGHT OF CATHOLIC PARENTS

Berlin, Nov. 21. A pastoral letter from the Catholic Bishop of Berlin was read yesterday in all Catholic churches protesting against the recent request to parents in a certain district in Berlin to sign a form stating that they would send their children to lay schools.

The letter stated that all Catholic parents are entitled under the Concordat to send their children to Catholic schools, and it is their duty to insist on this right.—Reuter.

ITALIAN TROOPS LEAVE CHINA

Shanghai, Nov. 21. About 800 officers and men of the Savoy Grenadiers, who arrived in Shanghai in September last year, are leaving by the Conte Verde on November 21.

Nothing is known regarding their destination, although it is presumed that they will first go to Italy to see their families prior to returning to Abyssinia, whence they sailed for Shanghai.

Meanwhile, about 200 officers and men from the Compagnia San Marco, who are at present stationed in Tientsin, are expected here either to-morrow or on Wednesday to take over temporarily the Italian defence sector here.—Reuter.

PRINCE PAUL ON VISIT TO LONDON

Will Discuss Trade And Politics

London, Nov. 21. Prince Paul, senior Regent of Yugoslavia, is expected to arrive in London to-day, accompanied by Princess Olga, sister of the Duchess of Kent.

The visit is said to be private, but in Yugoslavia, Prince Paul's visit to London is regarded to be of importance in view of Germany's efforts to increase trade with Yugoslavia.

Yugoslav circles declare that during the visit Prince Paul will discuss politics and trade with leading British Ministers.—Reuter.

YUGOSLAVIA'S ECONOMIC RELATIONS

Paris, Nov. 21. Special importance is attached in French diplomatic circles to the visit of Prince Regent Paul of Yugoslavia to London which is regarded as evidence that Yugoslavia desires to consolidate the ties uniting her to England and France.

It is pointed out in those circles that complete economic dependence on Germany and Italy would not be advantageous for Yugoslavia and that the latter, therefore, wishes to develop her economic relations with the Western Powers.

It is further emphasised that the Prince Regent's visit is not only connected with economic questions but also with the development of cultural relations with Western Europe.—Transocean.

REFUGEES IN COURT

Four Chinese, among the several who appeared at the Kowloon Court yesterday on charges of begging for alms, claimed that they were refugees from the war zones.

Mr. Q. A. A. Macfarlane, the Magistrate, bound the four refugees on a sum of five dollars to be of good behaviour for a year, sending two to the refugee camp at Kam Tin and allowing the other two a dollar each from the Poor Box to pay their passage money to Swatow.

FOOTBALL ASSOCIATION PRESIDENT DEAD

Billy Pickford, Man Of Many Reforms

Seventy-seven-year-old, acid-tongued, dapper Billy Pickford, president of the Football Association, died last month in Bournemouth and left a huge gap in the football fabric of Great Britain. Although he served only fifteen months as president, he had been a Soccer chief for the best part of fifty-two years, and a Soccer chief who lashed out at anything he didn't like, writes a Home correspondent.

Billy Pickford was a popular man personally, but some of the things he had to say about the game could be embarrassingly pointed. I have been at functions with him, and I have seen them wince when he got around to his point.

They called him the man of many reforms. He instituted the half-way line; forced the decision that a player should not be off-side in his own half of the field; got referees brought under the control of the F.A.; first designed the referees' chart.

Funny that the man who should come to take the controlling position in the greatest sporting body in the world should have started out as a Rugby enthusiast. His teacher persuaded him against his will to join the Bolton All Saints, and he fell in love with the round ball game. But, before that, "I wouldn't have crossed the road to look at Soccer," he used to say.

HE TOOK THE FIRST PENALTY KICK

Billy Pickford was first captain of Hampshire, and played for Bournemouth for ten years up to 1893. They say that he took the first penalty kick awarded in the county of Hampshire.

But football wasn't his only sporting love. At one time he was captain of the local swimming water polo and cycling sides, besides leading his local Soccer club. He was for fifty-two years, since its inception—treasurer and honorary secretary of Hampshire F.A.; a member of the Football Council for fifty-one years; vice-president of the Football Association for thirty years, and for fourteen years vice-chairman. Literally, he grew old in the service of the game. He succeeded Sir Charles Clegg in August of last year, because he was senior vice-president. Present senior vice-president is A. G. Hines, of Nottinghamshire, who is eighty-one.

CLEAN FOOTBALL

His great passion was clean football. When the foul-play controversy was at its height last year and officialdom had been breaking champion Alekhine but finally had to content himself with a draw after 43 moves.

The game between Keres and Flohr likewise ended in a draw after 30 moves. The game between Reshevsky and Botvinnik was adjourned after 40 moves with Reshevsky having prospects for a win.

Capablanca and Fine also adjourned their game after 43 moves with equal prospects.—Transocean.

It's neck to neck to the claims of impartial observers that a vicious element was getting into the play, the president came out at a public dinner, broke through the cordon of platitudinous blandishments that were being passed from speaker to speaker, and demanded a cleaning up of the play.

That set them by the ears. . . . Mr. Pickford was a man of some vision. More than thirty years ago he wrote a book in which he predicted State-controlled football, State-graded referees earning a maximum wage of £3,000 a year, and State-graded players with wages of up to £2,000 a year.

QUOTED SHAKESPEARE

And witty. . . Only a month or two back he quoted Shakespeare against the dirty player. — "I'll not be strucken, my lord. — Nor tripped neither, you base football player."

And inclined to be dictatorial. When a manager appealed against a decision affecting one of his players, Mr. Pickford described his action as "damned impertinence."

Active as a cat, too. Forty years ago, in one day, he swam across Lake Windermere before breakfast, cycled from Bowness to Lodore and back, and then climbed Helvellyn. So that is Billy Pickford who is gone. Rest him well. . . .

Nine Old Hockey Blues Still Up At Oxford

CAMBRIDGE TO REBUILD DEFENCE

The Seniors' and Freshmen's trials at the universities should prove of greater value to the Cambridge captain, P. R. Oliver, than to A. P. D. Montgomery, of Oxford, who is in the happy position of having nine old Blues again available.

Oliver has the difficult task of rebuilding his defence and possibly filling two vacancies in the attack. A left-half almost up to international form, the skipper alone remains of last season's defence.

Among the most promising Seniors are R. M. Aryle and Q. V. L. Weston, the latter being a smart left-wing forward.

J. D. Wakeling, now the hon. sec., remains to lead, the attack, and also in residence J. F. Skrimphire, at outside-right, and N. F. Borrett, at inside-left, J. D. Gotch, the inside-right, is doubtful.

DUTCH MERMAID SETS ANOTHER RECORD

Amsterdam, Nov. 21. A new world backstroke record for women was established yesterday by the Dutch swimmer, Irene van Eggelen, who covered the distance in 1 minute, 13 seconds, thus lowering her own world record established about a week ago by a fifth of a second.

This young Dutch girl swimmer holds all world records for backstroke swimming. Some of her best performances are: 200 metres in 2 minutes, 40.6 seconds, 400 metres in 5 minutes, 41.4 seconds and 150 yards in 1 minute, 43.3 seconds.—Transocean.

for rhythm of action and variety of control. He got most of his wickets by planning the manner of defeating his man. Indeed, in this respect, he rivalled the great Hugh Trumble.

There are all sorts of stories about "Jacker's confidence." Most of them are exaggerations. For instance, he is supposed as a schoolboy to have replied to congratulations on success in the Eton and Harrow match by saying: "Yes, I'm glad I did so well. It will give the governor a lift."

His father was the Rt. Hon. W. L. Jackson, Secretary for Ireland, but I bet you "Jacker" never referred to him as the "governor." I bet you "Jacker" never did a tactless thing in his life.

He was also chairman of the Conservative Party and Governor of Bengal.

Best England Cricketer Australia Never Saw

THE NEW PRESIDENT of Yorkshire, Sir F. S. Jackson who succeeds the late Lord Hawke, is quite decidedly among the select band of genuinely great cricketers, writes a London correspondent.

He ranks in the best half-dozen amateur batsmen and in the best half-dozen amateur bowlers produced by England.

If A. G. Steel was the next best all-round cricketer to W. G. in W. G.'s earlier period of prime, F. S. Jackson owned that honour in W. G.'s later period of prime.

No man who has ever played for England has as good a record in Test matches, judged by the combined standards of figures, style and circumstantial merit. And he was an eminently successful captain who could toss a coin as skillfully as Walter Hammond.

"HE WAS ARTIST"

No England cricketer who never went to Australia has ever been so desired in Australia. His success at home in Test cricket vividly captured the Australian imagination. He was greatly liked and respected by the leading Australian cricketers of his time, Joe, Darling, Clem Hill, Hugh Trumble and company.

He would have helped to win Test matches, but I am not sure he would have consented to stay in for scores of more than 200 runs.

The Australian populace would have liked him; for though they object in theory to Harrow and Cambridge, in practice they are annoyed if Harrow and Cambridge does not frame up to what they think Harrow and Cambridge ought to be.

No one could mistake "Jacker" for a half-and-half.

PERFECT TECHNIQUE

All my crickering life I had a deep admiration for Jacker's batmanship. His was the style and method I would have chosen as my model.

He was a driver in all directions, and a cutter fine and square, quite perfect in technique.

And without altering his game, he could play just as well on wet wickets as on dry. And he was a very intelligent batsman, always adaptive and appropriate.

As a "fast medium" right-hand bowler, he rivalled old Jack Hearne

Kalzana is a remarkable food containing no drugs whatsoever. In hot countries one's diet and the extent to which one perspires tend to decrease the mineral contents of the body. Many complaints such as irritability, high blood pressure, dizziness, acidity, which are so often ascribed to "the climate" are due largely to this loss of minerals.

When you do not feel as well as you should, start taking Kalzana tablets. They will soon put you right.

AMERICAN TAXATION GROWING

British And U.S. Figures Compared

When an American meets an Englishman the talk inevitably gets around to the income tax. "Five shillings in the pound" (with the exclamation mark) is an expression that has come to be a commonplace on this side of the Atlantic. And usually it has been the clinching point in the contention that the individual Briton is taxed much more heavily than the American.

It has been, as well, the stock-in-trade of the American taxpayer. In this last connection the Chamber offers these figures in which the American debt includes State and municipal as well as Federal indebtedness, and the British figures are made similarly comprehensive.

Such arguments are losing some of their effectiveness, and Americans are beginning to realize that the statistics of 1923 and 1933 are not necessarily good for 1938. A belated appreciation of the amount of Government spending and the attendant deficits is bringing about this understanding.

Surprisingly enough, the interior sections and their Congressmen, who for six years have revelled in the spending "at the expense of the industrialists and Wall Street," are now alarmed about it. On the other hand, the industrialists and Wall Street wearied of crying wolf, have about given up hope of any stoppage before a severe inflation has arrived and run its course.

Organisations representing business do continue to pound away with statements and warnings on the debt and taxes. At present the Chamber of Commerce of the United States is flooding the land with pamphlets designed, among other things, to blight the comparison made between Great Britain and America.

WHALE OIL IN MEDICINE

Case Against "Co-Op." Society Fails

A preparation labelled as "pure halibut liver oil" but alleged to contain whale liver oil, was the subject of a prosecution at West London recently.

Two summonses against the London Co-operative Society Ltd., alleging infringement of the Merchandise Marks Act by selling a preparation to which the false description of pure halibut liver oil, guaranteed, was applied on the label, were dismissed.

Giving his decision, the magistrate, Mr. Paul Bennett, V.C., observed that he was quite satisfied the article sold was not pure halibut liver oil, but the society was entitled to a dismissal under the proviso of the Act because it had "no reason to suspect the genuineness of the trade description." He added: "In future I do not think this oil should be labelled as pure halibut liver oil, but should be described as it is, a mixture."

Nothing bears out this statement more graphically than a comparison of the number of Americans and Britons who pay income tax. The United States, with a population of 130,000,000, has approximately 2,500,000 persons paying Federal income tax. Great Britain, with a population of 49,000,000, has 8,000,000 payers.

Three years ago George O. May, the international authority on taxation praised the realism of the British system while he pointed out the absolute necessity of the broadening of the base of the income tax as a major requirement for the balancing of the budget of the United States. This year in Congress, Senator La Follette attempted without success to have the levy extended.

He was asked by Mr. Laskey, for British Colloids Ltd., who instituted the proceedings, if he thought it honest or decent to sell something which was a mixture and call it "pure, guaranteed."

Mr. Bolton: It is pure. The word pure, in my opinion, means it does not contain any extraneous impurity.

It was stated that a spectroscopic analysis had shown that the article contained partly halibut liver oil and partly whale liver oil.

Mr. Glyn Jones, defending, contended that this new test was not yet generally recognised in the scientific world. He also argued that halibut liver oil had to be adjusted to standardise its vitamin content.

According to the British pharmacopoeia Codex, it was still pure oil if whale, turbot or even vegetable oils were added.

KWANGCHOUWAN TO INTERIOR

Trunk Motor Roads Completed

Fort Bayard, Nov. 19

Four trunk motor roads radiating from Kwangchouwan have been completed. They are:

(1) From Kwangchouwan to Kweilin, in Kwangsi province via Watlam and Wuchow.

(2) From Kwangchouwan to Kweilin via Nanning, Luchow and Pinglo. Both are linked with Hengyang and Changsha, in Hunan province, via Kwangsi province.

(3) From Kwangchouwan to Lanchow, in Kansu province, via Nanning, Tatan, Kweiyang, Chungking, Chengtu and Sianfu.

(4) From Kwangchouwan to Kunming, in Yunnan province, via Kweiyang.

Over these routes considerable quantities of Szechuen, Kweichow, Yunnan and Kwangsi products, such as mineral ores, wood oil, hides, livestock and cereals are being conveyed to Kwangchouwan for export much more conveniently than via the Haiphong route—International.

The Chamber's comment is as follows: "It is true that the British income tax bears more heavily than the American income tax."

Usually, however, advocates of high income taxation in the United States neglect to point out that in addition to the Federal Government, many State governments also levy income tax.

It is also true that the burden of property taxes and indirect taxes in this country is much heavier than in Great Britain. The consequence is that the per capita taxes in 1937 were nearly the same in both countries."

JAPANESE REOPEN IRON MINE

The Lungyen iron mine near

Peiping was to have been reopened yesterday, according to a Peiping dispatch to the "Ta Kung Pao," which says that foreign newspapermen had been invited to inspect the mine.

The mine was opened in 1919 with equipment imported from the United States, but, operations were suspended during the world depression of a few years ago.

Some time ago, the mine was taken over by a group of Japanese industrialists.

The annual production at present is about 80,000 tons, but the Japanese are trying to increase it to 300,000 tons, by 1941.

EASTERN POWER CO. CRITICIZED

Failure of the Hwachuang Electric Power and Water Company, Japanese-sponsored successor to the Chapel Power and Water Company supplying electricity and water to the areas north of the International Settlement, to repair a break in its transmission lines for more than six hours brought bitter criticism against the firm from the "Shanghai Nippo," one of the two Shanghai local Japanese dailies. The "Nippo's" plant is operated with power supplied by the Hwachuang Company.

The paper described the manner in which the firm is being operated as a threat to Japanese prestige, as the company is a subsidiary of the officially sponsored Central China Development Company.

EXTENDING PHONE SERVICES

The Central Government has appropriated a sum of $300,000 for developing and extending telephone and telegraph services in Szechuen Province. With the help of this subsidy, the automatic telephone service in Chungking is almost completed.

CHIVALRY OF THE SEA

Cable Employees
Show Gratitude

For several years, captains of liners to Australia have brought their vessels within a mile of isolated Cocos Islands, halfway between Ceylon and Australia, in the Indian Ocean.

They drop overboard a cask containing fresh meat, butter, cheese, sweets, cigarettes and newspapers, the cask being destined for eight Cable and Wireless employees who man a cable station on the island and are otherwise visited only three times a year by ship from Singapore.

Last Tuesday at Electra House, London, the Cocos Cable Staff showed their gratitude when Mr. Edward Wilshaw, J.P., Chairman of the Company, presented a silver salver on their behalf to Captain L.V. James of the Orient liner, Otranto, in recognition of his chivalrous gesture of the sea.

SHANGHAI SHIVERS

Chattering teeth and luminous noses were the order of the day in Shanghai on November 12—a day of bitterly cold winds following the recent warm weather—and furs, overcoats and mufflers made their re-appearance to mark the advent of winter, which began officially last week. Temperature readings taken at Holy Trinity Cathedral at 7 p.m. on November 12 gave some indication of the rapid fall, which commenced on the previous evening. The minimum temperature for the twenty four hours from 7 p.m. on November 11 to 7 p.m. on November 12 was 38.5 as compared with 54 for the previous twenty-four hours. The maximum was 57, which was 10 degrees colder than the reading taken on November 10.

EYSTON DRIVES AT 10 M.P.H.!

Annual Race For Old Motor Cars

London, Nov. 21.
The annual race for old motor cars from London to Brighton took place yesterday.
Known as the "old crooks' race" the cars entered in the competition must be over 30 years old.
Some were in very good trim but others looked as if they had been rescued from refuse dumps. In fact, one was actually found in a field with a tree growing through it.
Despite rain, spectators had great fun and witnessed two famous motorists, Captain George Eyston and Kay Doo who drove at a speed of not more than ten miles an hour.—Reuter.

LATE QUEEN MAUD

Funeral Will Take Place In Norway

London, Nov. 21.
The funeral of Queen Maud will take place in Norway. Her body will be taken from the nursing home to Marlborough House Chapel in Saint James' Palace tomorrow afternoon where it will lie in state until Wednesday when the coffin will be conveyed to Victoria and placed on a special train for Portsmouth.
From there, the body will be taken to Norway in a British battleship, escorted by four destroyers. The Duke of Kent will probably represent King George at the funeral.—Reuter.

NEW COMMERCIAL ROUTE

The Japanese will keep the Pearl River closed to commercial navigation by third Powers as they are doing on the Yangtze River and monopolise shipping and commerce themselves.
Even if the Japanese re-open the Pearl River to navigation by third Powers, the commercial prospects in Canton under Japanese occupation will not be very bright, they opine.

Moreover, they point out, after the recent serious devastation and depopulation, no normal commercial conditions cannot possibly be revived within a short time.

In the event of the Chinese recapture of the city, it will not mean that Canton will be safe for commerce hereafter for the duration of the Sino-Japanese hostilities as the Japanese can launch a fresh campaign against the city at any time.

SIR CLARK KERR'S STATEMENT

In fact to have the cause of China much at heart.

In the course of the conversation, the Ambassador said that he found the spirit of resistance and the morale of the leaders and the Chinese people to have been unaffected by the loss of Canton and Hankow.

In conclusion, Sir Archibald Clark Kerr stated that he had been impressed by the magnificent fortitude and strength that was being shown by Chinese of all ages. And especially by the spirit of the

TENSION IN CANTON NOW STEADILY GROWING

JAPANESE TROOPS PASS THROUGH CITY ON WAY NORTH

Yungyuan, Kwangtung, November 21.
TENSION IN CANTON, which is growing with the gradual tightening of the Chinese encirclement on the city, became further evident yesterday when a long line of fully equipped Japanese troops from the East River passed through the city on their way to the north, presumably to strengthen the outer defence of the northern suburbs.
According to foreign reports, large numbers of refugees, who had formerly fled from Canton to adjoining districts, have returned to within the perimeter of the city limits as fighting has broken out at a number of points beyond.

RECORD SCORE BY M.C.C.

Kimberley, Nov. 21.
The M. C. C. scored 676 runs in the first innings of their three-day match against Griqualand West and thus created a ground record, the previous highest score being 603.
Griqualand West scored only 58 runs for the loss of eight wickets.—Reuter.

Shekki Ablaze After Fierce Air Raid

HEAVY DEATH ROLL FEARED

Macao, Nov. 19.
Numerous casualties and widespread destruction was caused by Japanese bombs dropped on Shekki yesterday about 1.45 p.m.

Six bombers participated in the raid and it is believed that powerful incendiary bombs were used by the raiders, as nearly 100 houses were destroyed, killing 11 and injuring 42 persons. The fire was still ablaze at 9 p.m.

It is feared that the Japanese have the town of S'ulam as their next objective.—Our Own Correspondent.

MOUNTING DEATH ROLL

Central News says that the death roll in Shekki is expected to mount as excavation work continues.

Eight bodies so far have been extricated from under the debris. It is believed that many are buried under the ruins of two restaurants which were hit by explosives. Forty-two persons were wounded.

The air raid is described as the worst which Shekki, an entirely defenceless town, has ever experienced. As a result of the attack, the town, which was recently depopulated in preparation for an expected Japanese invasion, has been further denuded of inhabitants. A large exodus of civilians, especially women and children, to Macao and the neighbouring villages is proceeding.

SYNAGOGUE DAMAGED

Bucharest, Nov. 21.
The synagogue at Karlsburg, the Rumanian provincial capital in Transylvania, was badly damaged by an explosion yesterday. The authorities are searching for the perpetrator.—Transocean.

Youth of China which was, he was sure, a thing of inestimable value to their country.

Stream Of Anti-Jew Measures Unending

Berlin, November 21.
The stream of measures against Jews continues unending.
The latest decree is that bookmakers must not accept a bet from Jews.

The newspaper "Diplomatische Correspondenz" predicts that one of the measures under the new laws will be that Jews in Germany will be held responsible for "acts of terrorism and provocation against Germans committed by Jews abroad."

ITALY AND SUEZ CANAL FEES

Rome, Nov. 21.

Italy is pressing for a reduction in the Suez Canal tolls, according to newspaper reports which add that Italy contributes the second largest volume of business through the Canal and provides a quarter of the Canal's income without having a share in the profits. The needs of developing Abyssinia have caused a demand for reduction in Canal fees.—Reuter.

MURDER DEFENCE

Paris, Nov. 21.
